JUDGE C. T. SAXTON DEAD.

Former Lieutenant Governor of New York State.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 24.—Charles T. Saxton of Clyde, ex-Lieutenant governor of New York state and presiding judge of the court of claims, has died in the city hospital here from what the physicians describe as an incurable organic disease. With him at the time of his death were his two daughters, Mrs. Albert H. Wilcox of Rochester and Miss Helen N. Saxton of Clyde.

Charles Terry Saxton was born in Clyde, N. Y., on July 2, 1846. When he was only fifteen years old he enlisted in the army and saw service at Port Hudson, in the Red river campaign and in the Shenandoah valley in 1864. He was discharged at the close of the war with the rank of sergeant major.

Returning home, he studied law. Mr. Saxton first entered public life as an assemblyman in 1887, representing the eastern district of Wayne county. He soon became one of the leading members of the assembly and in 1896 was elevated to the state senate. In 1894 he was elected president pro tempore of the senate and in November of that year he was elected lieutenant governor of the state, running on the Republican ticket with Levi P. Morton. In March, 1897, following the expiration of his term as lieutenant governor, Mr. Saxton was appointed a judge of the state court of claims by Governor Black. Subsequently he became presiding judge of the court. In May, 1900, he was offered by the president the office of judge advocate of the island of Porto Rico, but declined it.
